Program Offered

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #5)

NewEra College offers the following online programs:

- Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)
- Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)
- Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)
- Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Programs' Description

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #6a)

I) Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) with 30 Credit hours

II) Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) with 32 Credit hours

Language: All Lectures occur in Arabic

Topical Outline:

The program provides a comprehensive exploration of teaching Arabic as a foreign language (TAFL) with a focus on practical approaches. This program falls into two tracks: Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) track degree with 30 Credit hours and Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) track degree with 32 Credit hours. Students choose either the M.Ed or MA track.

Statement of Purpose:

i. Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

The professional track is designed for students seeking to develop the analytical and practical skills necessary for advancement in non-academic careers in government, NGOs, and business, as well as a solid understanding of the teaching and pedagogical field. It is tailored for students who do not plan on pursuing a Ph.D after their completion of the masters. Students in the professional track write a master's report (ARR) that must include the integration of theory and practice through practical research projects, enabling students to investigate practical challenges within their field of study. It promotes the synthesis of theoretical and practical knowledge through procedural research projects in the field of teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. The Master's degree in the professional track program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as an Action Research Report (AAR) defense.

ii. Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Students who wish to pursue a Ph.D should choose the thesis track. Students in the thesis track submit Master's Graduation Portfolio (GP). This Portfolio is the MA research paper/thesis usually a review of literature with conclusions drawn after conceptualizing an area of inquiry, planning a systematic search, and analyzing and critiquing the acquired information. This academic paper should advance research knowledge and skills in teaching Arabic as foreign language (TAFL) discipline. This paper shows the way of tying together major themes, issues, and perspectives the TAFL student has encountered and reflected upon over the research fundamentals course in the Master's program. This understanding is cast in the light of what it means to the TAFL student and for the TAFL student's intended academical context. The Master's degree in the thesis track program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a Graduation Portfolio (GP) defense.

Skills/Jobs to Be Learned:

Graduates of the M.Ed & MA of Education in Applied Linguistics – TAFL Program will acquire the following:

- ✓ Proficiency in designing and delivering Arabic language lessons tailored to diverse learner needs.
- ✓ Expertise in evaluating and improving language curricula and instructional methods.
- ✓ Research and analytical skills to address linguistic challenges in teaching Arabic.
- ✓ Competence in using technology to enhance language learning and teaching.
- ✓ Cultural sensitivity and the ability to incorporate sociocultural contexts into teaching.
- ✓ Assessment and evaluation skills to monitor learner progress effectively.
- ✓ Development of lexicological resources and linguistic documentation for TAFL purposes.
- ✓ Statistical and data analysis in ethnography aspect
- ✓ Critical thinking in linguistics and pedagogical education difficulties.

The Master's program for the Thesis (MA) track culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a graduation portfolio defense.

III) Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

IV) Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Language: All Lectures occur in Arabic

Topical Outline:

This program is designed for specialized educators who have completed a Master's degree in the field and aim to further pursue an academic and research-oriented career. Doctoral-level degree program falls into two tracks: Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) track degree with 60 Credit hours and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) track degree with 62 Credit hours. EdD and Ph.D doctorate tracks are similar in some ways. Both lead to the highest level of graduate degree, and both encourage analytical, critical and creative thinking. Students choose either the EdD or Ph.D track.

Statement of Purpose:

- i. Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)
The EdD is a degree designed to prepare educators in Arabic as foreign language discipline. Working professionals often choose a doctoral program to gain knowledge they can use to apply their work experience, skills, and expertise to roles of greater leadership and influence. Complementary Research is the product for the Research Seminar course (RS-7009-FL) and Complementary Research preparation course (CR-7000), in which the candidate identifies a problem, presents their methodology, describes their project, makes observations about their findings, and presents a practical solution. Doctoral degree program coursework and Research Methods and Statistical Analysis courses prepare candidates as they learn about research methods, planning and designing research, statistics and presenting findings. The doctoral study's components are designed to demonstrate competence in research and research design, subject matter expertise, and command of critical thinking and academic writing. The Doctorate program for the professional (EdD) track culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a complementary research defense.

ii. Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

The Ph.D is an academic degree track focused on original research, data analysis, and the evaluation of theory. The result of that research is a dissertation. People who earn a Ph.D often pursue careers in research, academia, and leadership. The dissertation is the product of the Research Seminar course (RS-7009-FL) and Dissertation preparation course (DN-7000). The dissertation should address a gap in literature and add new knowledge to a field of teaching Arabic as foreign language through original research. A dissertation reflects a Ph.D candidate's interests and can have a significant impact in the community or profession. The Doctorate program for the Dissertation (Ph.D) track culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a dissertation defense.

Skills/Jobs to Be Learned:

Graduates of the EdD & Ph.D of Education in Applied Linguistics – TAFL program will acquire the following:

- ✓ Advanced skills in curriculum development and program implementation for TAFL.
- ✓ Expertise in conducting and applying research to solve practical teaching challenges.
- ✓ Proficiency in using modern teaching tools and educational technologies.
- ✓ Leadership and supervisory skills for managing language programs and training teachers.
- ✓ In-depth understanding of sociolinguistic and psycholinguistic factors in language acquisition.
- ✓ Reflective practice and continuous professional growth
- ✓ Statistical and data analysis in ethnography aspect
- ✓ Critical thinking in linguistics and pedagogical education difficulties.

Equipment / Technology Requirements or Competencies

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #6d)

The online degree programs of NewEra College use online computer-based learning as the method of course delivery in which the Internet is primarily used as the medium of communication. NewEra College uses Internet-based technologies such as learning management system (LMS), video conference, voice-over-IP (VOIP) calls, electronics mails, videos, and similar technologies to deliver course instructions and instructional materials to students. Students must have access to a computer with an Internet connection, video camera and microphone when required to access course instructions and materials, interact with NewEra College faculty and administration staff, and provide feedback. The computer must be able to run video conferencing software (e.g., Google Meet, Microsoft Team, Zoom), browser, and PDF reader. Students must know how to use a computer, computer software applications (e.g., browser, email, PDF reader, video conferencing software), and access the Internet. NewEra College provides all necessary tutorial instructions materials on how to use its student account and learning management system and these tutorial instructions and materials are available online at NewEra College website.

Clinical training, practicum, externships or special features

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #6e)

As part of the Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) program, students are required to complete a clinical practicum comprising a minimum of 3 credit hours of supervised Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) training. This practicum is an integral component of the Action Research and Educational Field Application Report (ARR).

During this structured, hands-on teaching experience, students assume the role of an Arabic language instructor for a duration equivalent to one full academic semester in an approved educational setting. The practicum emphasizes:

- Advanced classroom management techniques
- Effective teaching strategies for non-native Arabic learners
- Curriculum development, lesson planning, and instructional material design
- Assessment and evaluation of student learning outcomes
- Integration of technology in Arabic language instruction

Graduate Employment Opportunities

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #6f)

Graduates of the programs can obtain employment in the marketplace with any employer who is willing to hire them. NewEra College does not offer job placement for graduating students, nor can it guarantee gainful employment to its graduates. Some countries and states have licensure requirements for graduates of education-related degree programs to practice.

Requirements for graduate to practice

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #6g)

To successfully complete the program and qualify for professional practice, students must:

1. Complete the clinical practicum with satisfactory evaluations from faculty supervisors and cooperating instructors.
2. Submit an Action Research and Educational Field Application Report (ARR) demonstrating the application of research-based methodologies in TAFL instruction.
3. Meet all competency standards outlined by the program for effective foreign language teaching.

This structured training ensures graduates are well-prepared to practice as Arabic language educators in diverse educational settings, including K-12 schools, universities, and language institutes.

Payment schedules and Financing Options

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #7)

Tuition Deposit and Registration Fees

All successful applicants to the NewEra College programs are required to pay 20% of the tuition fees as a deposit to accept their place. Students must also pay a one-time Registration Fee of $200 upon program registration, refund policy applied.

Payment Options

a- Payment in Full for program

Students have the option to pay the full tuition amount for the entire program upfront. This ensures that all financial obligations are met at the beginning of the enrollment period.

b- Payment Plan Options

For students who prefer to make full payment at the start of each semester, NewEra College provides this option to manage tuition on a per-semester basis. Alternatively, students who require more flexibility may be eligible for a monthly payment plan, the school, at its sole discretion, may approve a monthly payment plan (a maximum of five payments during the fall and spring semesters). The payment schedule follows the Gregorian calendar, and due dates are determined accordingly. Current and subsequent schedules of payment will be attached to and made part of the student's Enrollment Agreement.

Payment Selection

Monthly payment options may be selected before the start of each semester, provided the student's tuition account remains in good credit standing. Good credit standing means that the student's account is current and all payments have been made on time. Payments are due on the 5th day of each payment month. The student's LMS account will be suspended and a $20 surcharge will be added monthly for the late payment(s), which may jeopardize the student's good credit standing and eligibility for future payment plans. If payments are not made by the end of the payment month, the student's account will be subject to closure, where a reactivation charge of $100 will be paid for LMS reactivation subject to full late payments paid before term final exams start date. The school may withhold grade reports, records, diplomas and other services if the student fails to pay any amounts due. The school may bar the student from registering for any future semesters until the student account is fully current.

Payment Methods and Service Charges

The institution accepts bank transfers and major debit and credit cards with surcharge of 4% applies to cover processing fees, and in case of a wire transfer, a $50 fee will be added.

Payment Schedules

Payment dates are set by the school, and payment schedules will be attached to and made part of the student's Enrollment Agreement. Certain student fees are not eligible for payment plans and are due in full by the payment deadline. If the student fails to make any payment on time, the entire unpaid balance including service charges, plus any applicable penalty charges may, at the sole option of the school, become immediately due and payable. The school has the right to change tuition and fees at any time. The amount of tuition and fees is stated in the Catalog in effect for each education year.

Financial Assistance

NewEra College does not offer financial assistance. The school is not eligible for participation in the Federal Student Aid (FSA) programs and cannot process a request or assist with a deferment of a Title IV school loan.

Eligibility for Discounts, Scholarships and Loans

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #8)

NewEra College extends its support to the community as part of its social responsibility, by providing discounts and scholarships to degree program applicants and students who want to pursue higher education. This makes education more accessible, especially to the families and communities of NewEra College. NewEra College encourages and promotes access to higher education for people who meet the criteria. Students and applicants who are beneficiaries of the discounts or scholarships of NewEra College are required to comply with the school's admission requirements, policies, and procedures.

Discounts

Tuition discounts available to all students who meet the announced eligibility requirements. Tuition discounts for students including:

1. Enrolling as part of a group,
2. Who are similarly situated, or
3. Enrolling under the same program or course schedule.
4. All discounts or special offers identify the specific costs for a course or program.
5. All discounts (excluding those offered to well-defined groups) or special offers designate a specific expiration date and do not extend beyond the expiration date.
6. Employee Discount:
 - NewEra College provides a free registration fee and seventy percent (70%) tuition fee discount to its employees to encourage personal growth and professional advancement which can be beneficial to NewEra College in return.
 - The discount applies to all degree program applicants and students who are employees of NewEra College.
 - The discount does not apply to fees not covered by the registration fee and tuition, such as software licenses, books, and other learning materials required to complete the program.
 - The discount does not apply, or is automatically terminated, when the employment contract of the employee in NewEra College is terminated.
7. Employee Children Discount
 - NewEra College provides a free registration fee and fifty percent (50%) tuition fee discount to the children of its employees.
 - The discount applies to all degree program applicants and students who are children of the employees of NewEra College.
 - The discount does not apply to fees not covered by the registration fee and tuition, such as software licenses, books, and other learning materials required to complete the program.

- The discount does not apply, or is automatically terminated, when the employment contract of the employee in NewEra College is terminated.
 - This discount cannot be combined with the Employee discount.
8. NewEra College Loyalty/Referral Discount
- NewEra College provides a five percent (5%) tuition fee discount to the NewEra College graduates.
 - The discount applies to NewEra College graduates programs only.
 - The discount does not apply to fees not covered by the tuition, such as registration fee, software licenses, books, and other learning materials required to complete the program.
 - This discount cannot be combined with the Employee and Employee Children discount
9. Multiple Discount Entitlement
- Students who are eligible for multiple discounts at the same time will get all the discounts combined, except those discounts that cannot be combined. NewEra College identifies the total discount as the sum of all discounts.
10. Maximum Discount
- NewEra College does not provide a discount that is greater than one hundred percent (100%). If in any case the total discount is greater than 100%, NewEra College adjusts the total discount to 100%.

Discount Application

Applicants and students of NewEra College degree programs who want to apply for discounts must submit a completed Discount Application Form with their recent and duly certified supporting documents upon enrollment every term (semester). Documents are considered recent if they are not older than 3 months. Supporting documents that are submitted every term are reviewed by the NewEra College Admissions team. Discount applicants are notified of their application status through electronic mail or phone within 15 working days from the receipt date of the documents to inform them if they need to submit more documents, or whether they are entitled to any discounts or not. Discount applicants who are not approved of any discounts may apply for reconsideration within 10 working days from the notification date by completing and submitting a Grievance Form. For information on how to file the Grievance Form, refer to the Grievance Policy section of this document.

Scholarships

Scholarship Program

NewEra College offers a variety of scholarships. Students may also be eligible for external scholarships based on criteria set by the awarding bodies.

- Scholarship applicants must pass the scholarship qualifying criteria.

- Scholars may be required to contribute by working at NewEra College in research, training, administration, or other tasks according to their capabilities and potential.
- The scholarship amount is based on the result of the scholarship qualifying criteria and the scholar's contribution to NewEra College.
- Scholarships cannot be combined with any discounts.

Eligibility (Special Achievements or Interests)

1. Minimum GPA: Often 3.0 or higher.
2. Standardized Test Scores: Applicants must take and pass the scholarship qualifying exam/interview.
3. Extracurricular Activities: Participation in community service, leadership roles, or clubs.
4. Athletic Talent: Scholarships for student-athletes based on performance.
5. Artistic Ability: Portfolios or auditions for creative fields.

Scholarship Application

- The scholarship application period starts in November and ends in December each year. The qualifying exam is conducted by the end of December, and the final selection of scholarship awardees is made in January of the following year.
- The President of NewEra College or their designee may change these dates, provided that any changes are published on the NewEra College Scholarship webpage at least 60 days before the new application start date to allow reasonable notification to applicants.
- Applicants may apply online on the NewEra College website Scholarship page, where application dates are published.

Grounds for Termination

- Scholarships may be terminated if the scholar fails to submit required documents.
- Scholars may voluntarily terminate their scholarships by submitting a completed Scholarship Termination Form to the Chief Academic Officer or designee at least seven calendar days before the termination date. The form is available on the NewEra College website.
- A scholarship is automatically terminated if the scholar is no longer enrolled at NewEra College.

Loans

NewEra College does not provide any type of loan to students.

If a student receives a loan to pay for an educational program, the student is responsible for repaying the full loan amount plus interest and fees.

Cancellation, Withdrawal and Refund Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #9)

Non-Acceptance

An applicant denied by the school is entitled to a refund of all monies paid.

Three-Day Cancellation

An applicant who provides written notice of cancellation within three days (excluding Saturday, Sunday and federal and state holidays) of signing an enrollment agreement is entitled to a refund of all monies paid. No later than 30 days of receiving the notice of cancellation, the institution shall provide the 100% refund.

Other Cancellations

1. The student requesting cancellation more than 3 calendar days after signing an enrollment agreement, but prior to beginning the program, is entitled to a refund of the payment minus:
 - A transfer credit evaluation fee $200 (if applicable);
 - A one-time registration fee of the tuition of $200; and
 - Library service fees, if provided by a third-party service.
 - Any other third-party service's fees.
2. The institution policy dictates a cancellation for the suspended accounts if not full late payments and reactivation action taken before the first day of the final exams, tuition refund policy applied.
3. The institution policy dictates a cancellation for the expelled students, tuition refund policy applied.

Refund after the Commencement of Classes

The Institution assumes that all prospective students will have thought long about taking up a program and therefore applying for admission.

However, the Institution understands that there are many reasons for wishing to withdraw from the program, both before and after the program has commenced.

Consequently, the Institution policy on refund of fees upon withdrawal in the event of cancellation, for whatever reason, the following will apply:

1. Cancellations must be made in writing using the form for cancellation and will only be considered to have been made on the date on which the institution received it.
2. For a student who is on authorized leave of Absence and provided the form with supporting documents for approval. The withdraw date is 30 calendar days from the date the student was scheduled to return from the LOA and did not return.
3. A student will be determined to be withdrawn from the institution if the student has not attended any class for 30 days (For full time programs only).

4. All refunds will be issued within 30 days of cancellation request approval.

Tuition charges/refunds

- Before the beginning of classes, the student is entitled to a refund of 100% of the tuition (less the registration fee of $200).
- After the commencement of classes, the tuition refund (less the registration fee of $200) amount shall be determined based on the table below. The tuition refund amount shall be based on the total cost of enrolled semester fees of the student for the current semester.

% of the Semester attempted	Tuition refund amount
10% or less	90%
More than 10% and less than or equal to 20%	80%
More than 20% and less than or equal to 30%	70%
More than 30% and less than or equal to 40%	60%
More than 40% and less than or equal to 50%	50%
More than 50%	No Refund is required

The percentage of the semester attempted is determined by dividing the total number of days elapsed from the student's start date to the student's last day of attendance, by the total number of days in the semester.

For students enrolled in two or more semesters that award program certificate, NewEra College treats each semester separately for the purposes of calculating the appropriate amount of tuition refund owed to the student.

The institution calculates the refunds based on the discounted costs.

Books, Supplies and Fees

Books, materials, software licenses, library services, and other supplies required for course completion are not provided by the school and are not the responsibility of the school; they are the responsibility of the students to purchase separately. Fees related to these items may be paid directly to outside vendors chosen by the students. NewEra College is not responsible for and does not provide refunds related to these items. Refunds and related fees of these items are subject to the outside vendor policies and agreements with the student.

Refund Issuance Schedule

Refunds will be issued within 30 days from the date of student notification, or date of school determination (withdrawn due to absences or other criteria as specified in the school catalog), or in the case of a student not returning from an authorized Leave of Absence (LOA), within 30 calendar days from the date the student was scheduled to return from the LOA and did not return.

Collections

Collection procedures used by the institution or third parties reflect sound and ethical business practices. Tuition collection practices and procedures are fair, encourage students' progress, and seek to retain their good will. Collection practices consider the rights and interests of the students and the institution.

IMPACT STATEMENT

The institution discloses its tuition, cancellation, refund, and collection policies and procedures prior to student enrollment. All cancellations and refunds are processed promptly upon notification by the student in any manner. The institution maintains student good will throughout the collections process and assures that students are aware of the responsibilities and obligations of both the institution and the student.

Student Services

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #10)

General Services

NewEra College provides support to students related to the school's methods, policies and procedures; student career path guidance; online learning requirements; administrative support; and all other general services that are beneficial to enhance the experience of the students in NewEra College.

Academic Advisory

Each student is assigned an Academic Adviser, the student's point of contact for support and service requirements, and to assist in resolving issues, from the date of enrollment through graduation. The Academic Advisers are available during office hours through e-mail, video conference, or phone calls to provide support to students in their academic requirements. The Academic Advisers also monitor their assigned students in terms of academic performance and encourage students to achieve their academic goals.

Library Services

Students can access NewEra's Online Library on NewEra College website using their NewEra account. Students may register with third-party online library resources and services, but this is an individual endeavor and may incur additional fees depending on the third-party provider. Some third-party online library provider is The Free Library at www.thefreelibrary.com

Technical Support

Students requiring assistance with installation, setup, access, or navigation of the online classroom can reach out to the college's Technical Support team for detailed help.

The team is available to provide step-by-step guidance and resolve technical issues related to the virtual learning environment.

Technical support at NewEra College is available Monday through Friday, from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM Mountain Standard Time (MST) between the first Sunday in November and the second Sunday in March, and Mountain Daylight Time (MDT) for the remainder of the year, excluding holidays.

Program and Course Delivery

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #11)

Course Format and Access

The degree programs of NewEra College use online as the method of course delivery in which the Internet is primarily used as the medium of communication. NewEra College uses Internet-based technologies such as learning management system (LMS), video conference, voice-over-IP (VOIP) calls, electronics mails, videos, and similar technologies to deliver course instructions and instructional materials to students. Students should have access to a computer with Internet connection when required to access course instructions and materials, assessments, attendance, grades, and others; interact with NewEra College faculty and administration staff; and provide feedback. Before starting a coursework, students are provided with orientation materials, which introduce them to the online learning platform, student resources, and the process for successfully completing online courses. Students can access their course activities and materials at any time and interact with NewEra faculty and administration staff online during office hours. Students should note that some course activities have access expiration dates due to submission deadlines.

Faculty and Instruction

Courses are facilitated by faculty with advanced degrees and practical experience in the field of instruction. Students receive personalized attention and work closely with faculty towards successfully progressing through the courses in the program. Students are monitored and graded on participation, project assignments, and assessments. Individual communication takes place through the online messaging system. Continuous improvement and institutional effectiveness are achieved through course and faculty evaluations conducted with students after the end of each course.

Instructional Model

The goal of NewEra College is to provide a high-quality educational experience to students and faculty through online learning using innovative techniques. The instructional model is as follows:

- Each student progresses through the program within cohorts
- All instruction is provided in English for the programs provided in English language.
- All instruction is provided in Arabic for the programs provided in Arabic language.
- The semester duration is 15 weeks. Students are required to participate in discussion boards, submit assignments, and take exams in an asynchronous manner.
- The final course grade is submitted within seven (7) calendar days from the scheduled end date of each semester.

Participation

Lectures are conducted synchronously, meaning students must be logged into the system at the scheduled lecture time weekly, as per the course timetable. However, the lectures are also recorded, allowing students the flexibility to choose the most convenient days and times to participate and review the content at their own pace. Discussion boards close at 11:59 p.m. on Sunday evenings each week. After this time, students can view all posts but will not be able to add new ones. Only substantive contributions to the discussion boards will count toward a student's participation grade.

Academic Honesty

NewEra College takes academic honesty very seriously. Students are expected to always submit original work, and outside sources should be appropriately credited whenever used. Works that require citation include, but are not limited to, hard copy or electronic publications (copyrighted or not), and communication (verbal or otherwise) originating from identifiable sources. Academic dishonesty occurs when:

- students use words or ideas that are not their original work in assignments;
- citations are not included for all used outside sources;
- work is recycled from another course taken by the same students (unless agreed with the instructor in advance);
- Documents, such as transcripts or diplomas are forged, etc.

Faculty members are trained and encouraged to try and prevent plagiarism in their classes. Some steps in that direction are for a faculty member to make it clear, through announcements or assignment instructions, what constitutes plagiarism (as well as the potential consequences), and how assignments and citations should be formatted. Both students and faculty members are encouraged to check assignments using a plagiarism checker software. Instances of plagiarism are addressed immediately.

Academic Honesty Procedure

When a faculty member determines that academic dishonesty in an assignment has occurred, the faculty member can address the issue directly with the student by considering one of the following options:

- educating the student on plagiarism (whenever it is unintentional or due to deficiency in understanding of what plagiarism is);
 - allowing a student to resubmit the assignment; or
 - taking steps to report the offence using the procedure outlined below along with a disciplinary action such as issuing a Failing grade on the assignment, reducing the final grade, or issuing a Failing grade for the course
1. If the instructor and student cannot resolve the plagiarism issue, the instructor submits an Academic Dishonesty Complaint form to the Chief Academic Officer or designee, with a copy sent to the student. The student has an opportunity to respond to the allegation.
 2. The Chief Academic Officer or designee assigns an Academic Honesty Committee, which reviews the forms and communications, and determines an appropriate action to address the issue. Some of the possible outcomes include student removal from class, loss of semester credit, documented counseling, or in extreme cases, expulsion from the school. The President of NewEra College is informed of all reported instances and the actions taken.
 3. The student has the right to appeal the decision to the Chief Academic Officer or designee. All actions are based on the severity of the offense.

Calendar

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #12a,b)

NewEra College uses a 15-week semester term. An academic year can be broken down into two terms where the fall starts in August and the spring starts in January. Due to the online nature of the degree programs of NewEra College, the school may start cohorts of students at any time that may not necessarily align with the term start dates, if there are demands, subject to the approval of the Chief Academic Officer, President, or designee.

- Fall Term 2025 (August 18 - December 31)
- Spring Semester 2026 (Jan 5 - May 15)

Academic Information and Policies

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13a)

Admission Policy

NewEra College aims to attract applicants who have the potential to excel in their chosen fields. The admission criteria of NewEra College do not put significant weight on the academic performance of its applicants from their previous school as it is not the only measure of success. NewEra College gives applicants equal opportunity to pursue college education, especially those who were not able to get the opportunity to access high-quality education due to constraints in financials, geographical location, and other reasons. NewEra College believes that interest, proper guidance, exposure, and maturity can help students learn and improve performance. Thus, giving applicants the opportunity to join NewEra College to get a degree may help them get better opportunities or further their studies. NewEra College admits students regardless of race, color, national origin, disability, sex, creed, religion, or age.

Enrollment and Status

Due to the NewEra College policies, all applicants are considered as part-time students. Students who enroll in a course after the tuition period covered in their enrollment agreement are required to complete a new enrollment agreement with updated fees and terms, and pay the registration fee again. Students who have withdrawn from a program already have their enrollment agreement on such program cancelled. If they apply for admission on the same program again, they are required to complete a new enrollment agreement with updated fees and terms, and pay the registration fee. Students must settle their outstanding balance to be able to enroll in courses for the next semester. Students must also pay the first installment of each semester based on the payment terms before the semester classes start. NewEra College reserves the right not to enroll students or not to allow students to attend classes due to missed payments based on the terms of payment specified in the enrollment agreement.

Course Load

The NewEra programs are designed to be completed either consecutively in a sequential order (back-to-back), or concurrently (at the same time).

Students enrolled in the Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) degree program has to fulfill 30 credit hours to be completed over 2-3 semesters, Each semester 12-17 credit hours.

Students enrolled in the Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) degree program has to fulfill 32 credit hours to be completed over 2-3 semesters, Each semester 12-17 credit hours.

Students enrolled in the Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) degree program has to fulfill 60 credit hours to be completed over 4 semesters each semester 12-17 credit hours, plus 6 semesters for Complementary Research and independent studies.

Students enrolled in the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) degree program has to fulfill 62 credit hours to be completed over 4 semesters each semester 12-17 credit hours, plus 6 semesters for dissertation and paper publication.

A semester credit typically represents 15 hours of academic engagement and 30 hours of preparation.

Students are expected to spend 1 hour of instruction and 2 hours of outside preparation for every credit hour enrolled.

Program or Course Cancellation

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13b)

A student has the right to withdraw from the college at any time. The date the college receives a student's withdrawal request is the official withdrawal date for documentation and refund purposes.

Students are required to follow the fixed-semester course schedule as part of their program and cannot drop individual courses. If a student faces exceptional circumstances that require withdrawing from the entire program, they should consult the Cancellation, Withdrawal, and Refund Policy section for further guidance.

Confirmation of receipt of the withdrawal notice is sent via the student portal. If the student does not receive a confirmation within 30 days, the student should contact the administration. Any money due to the student will be refunded within 30 days of the withdrawal request date receipt.

The college will withdraw a student from the program for failure to maintain satisfactory progress, failure to abide by the policies and procedures of the college, absences over the maximum set forth by the college, and/or failure to meet financial obligations to the college.

Changes to enrollment or program status are reviewed on a case-by-case basis, and decisions are made based on the student's situation and academic progress.

NewEra College reserves the right to cancel a program or course due to insufficient student enrollment or necessary modifications to the program structure. In such cases, the College will provide advance notice of the cancellation prior to the scheduled commencement of the program or course.

Grading Policy & satisfactory progress tracking

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13c)

Grading Policy

Assignments and Proctored Exams

NewEra College goal is to ensure academic integrity while accommodating the flexibility needed for distance learners. As part of the program grading, assessments will primarily be assignment-based, each course will include regular assignments, and participation in the course discussions and activities will form the core of the evaluation process. All student work is submitted on the learning management system (LMS), and faculty members assign individual assignment grades, however, to ensure understanding of specific material or for specialized courses the grading will embrace quizzes and final exam as well. The quizzes and final exams are proctored and clearly outlined in the course syllabus.

Students are expected to have a functioning webcam. All students must adhere to the instructions and guidelines for proctored exams to maintain their academic standing at NewEra College.

All grads are available to students on the student LMS Account.

Make-Up Work

Students who miss any classwork are responsible for completing all missed content. Course requirements, including assignments and tests, must be fulfilled regardless of absences. Assignments must be submitted by the specified deadlines, and participation will be measured based on substantive contributions in alignment with the course syllabus. Substantive posts typically include meaningful interactions, such as responding to discussion prompts or engaging in peer feedback, and not merely logging into the course platform.

Term GPA is the Grade Point Average calculated based on the courses completed during a semester.

Cumulative GPA is the Grade Point Average calculated based on all completed courses counted towards the completion of a degree requirement at the school. It does not include grades assigned on transferred credits from other institutions.

Grading Scale

The following grading scale is adopted for use in all courses.

Grading System
% Range	Grade	GPA	Grade Description
97 - 100	A+	4	Excellent
93 - 96	A	4	Excellent
90 - 92	A-	3.7	Excellent
87 - 89	B+	3.3	Very Good
83 - 86	B	3	Very Good
80 - 82	B-	2.7	Very Good
77 - 79	C+	2.3	Good
73 - 76	C	2	Good
70 - 72	C-	1.7	Good
67 - 69	D+	1.3	Fair
63 - 66	D	1	Fair
60 - 62	D-	0.7	Fair
0 - 59	F	0	Fail
	W		Student-Initiated Withdrawal
	AW		Administrative Withdrawal
	I		Incomplete

Grading Criteria

A = Excellent

The student demonstrates an advanced knowledge of all the content and skills presented in the course and uses professional or personal experience to contribute to class knowledge in a unique and insightful manner. The student has excellent writing skills and participates actively in all aspects of the learning process.

B = Very good

The student demonstrates a solid understanding of all the content and skills presented in the course and frequently applies relevant professional or personal experience to enhance class discussions. The student has strong writing skills and actively engages in most aspects of the learning process.

C = Good

The student demonstrates knowledge of most of the content and skills presented in the course and often uses relevant professional or personal experience to contribute to class knowledge. The student has very good writing skills and participates frequently in the online classroom.

D = Fair

The student demonstrates enough knowledge of the content and skills presented in the course and applies relevant professional or personal experience to class topics. The quality and quantity of work presented by the student on course assignments in participation forums are acceptable.

F = Fail

The quality and quantity of work presented by the student on course assignments in participation forums are unacceptable.

W = Withdrawal

Students receive a grade of “W” if they officially withdraw from the course prior to completing the course, regardless of whether they were determined to be passing or failing the course by the faculty member, at the time of withdrawal. The grade is not calculated in the GPA and the course credits are not assigned for course work ending in a withdrawal. Course withdrawals are included in the student academic record and transcripts.

AW = Administrative Withdrawal

Administrative Withdrawal refers to a student course withdrawal which is initiated by the school for reasons such as: failure to participate, not meeting a course prerequisite, academic conduct issues, etc. Administrative Withdrawal, which occurs after a course has already started, leads to a grade of AW entered on the student’s academic record. The AW grade has no effect on the student’s academic GPA.

I = Incomplete

Students may request an Incomplete (grade of I) status by submitting an Incomplete form, signed, and agreed to between the students and the course instructor. Approval of Incomplete status is at the discretion of the instructor. Students have 4 weeks to complete all course work after being assigned a grade of I. Failure to complete all course work results in the students earning the grade based on the coursework completed. A grade of “I” is not entered into the GPA calculation or the student academic record, but the grade earned after the completion of the extension period is entered into both GPA calculation and the student academic record.

Grade Challenges

A student may challenge a final course grade if there is clear and credible evidence of arbitrary or unprofessional grading. Individual assignment grades shall be handled between the student and the faculty member for the course.

The following policies and procedures apply to all grade challenges:

1. If a student believes that the final course grade is the result of an arbitrary or unprofessional grading by the course instructor, the student may dispute the grade in writing with the instructor within 7 calendar days of the final grade being posted. The student may send the written dispute to the instructor’s official NewEra College e-mail. A copy of the communication shall be preserved.
2. If a satisfactory solution cannot be found, the student may submit a Grade Challenge Form to the Chief Academic Officer or designee within 21 days of the final grade posting date. The Grade Challenge Form can be submitted through the NewEra College website
3. The Chief Academic Officer or designee makes the final determination after reviewing all related documentation and consulting with both the student and the faculty member

4. The student will be notified, in writing, of the decision within 7 calendar days of the decision being issued by the Chief Academic Officer or designee.

Satisfactory progress tracking

NewEra College maintains strict standards of satisfactory academic progress for all students. To remain in good academic standing and continue their education, students must stay continuously enrolled unless on an approved leave of absence and meet the following criteria:

1. Qualitative Measurement (GPA Requirement):
Students must maintain a minimum cumulative grade point average (CGPA) of 2.0 (C average) on all coursework attempted. Failure to meet this requirement may result in academic probation.
2. Quantitative Measurement (Pace of Completion):
Students must demonstrate steady progress toward program completion within the published program length. Requests for extensions may be considered on a case-by-case basis.
3. Attendance Requirement:
Students must meet the attendance requirement for each term, which is set at a minimum of 80% of the total required instructional days. Failure to meet this standard may impact a student’s academic standing.
4. Evaluation & Checkpoints:
 - Coursework grades are made available on the Learning Management System (LMS) immediately upon faculty grading.
 - The course grading is calculated at the end of each course to determine satisfactory progress.
5. Probation Policy:
Students who fail to meet the 2.0 CGPA requirement may be placed on academic probation for one term. During this period, students must demonstrate improvement or risk suspension or dismissal from the program.

Leave of Absence Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13d)

NewEra College understands that personal circumstances may occasionally necessitate such breaks, and students are encouraged to apply for an LOA to avoid disruption to their academic standing. A student may request a Leave of Absence (LOA), whenever it is necessary to take an academic leave due to mitigating circumstances in the student's life. A Leave of Absence (LOA) is a temporary break from attendance, during which students remain enrolled in their degree program.

Duration: A leave of absence may be granted for absence up to 50% of the semester period. Multiple leaves of absence may be approved provided that the total duration does not exceed the approved limit. In case of exceed the maximum allowed limit, student have the right to submit a request to register in the Credit by Exam.

Conditions: A leave of absence may be requested for serious circumstances, including illness, injury, maternity/paternity, or family emergencies. Other cases will be considered on an individual basis.

Request Procedure: Students must submit a written request for an LOA to the administration in advance, except in emergencies. The request must include the anticipated return date and a valid reason for the leave. The college administration must have reasonable assurance that the student will return within the specified timeframe.

Extension of Leave: If needed, an LOA may be extended, provided the extension request follows the same guidelines up to 50% of the semester period.

Failure to Return: If a student does not return by the specified date on the LOA form, they will be considered withdrawn from the program within 30 calendar days from the date the student was scheduled to return from the LOA and did not return. Student must reapply if they wish to resume their studies.

Communication During LOA: Students on LOA are encouraged to maintain communication with the college for updates on academic guidance. Academic advising is available for students on leave to assist with any concerns regarding their return to the program.

Re-Enrollment Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13e)

NewEra College evaluates re-enrollment requests from students who have withdrawn, been expelled, or failed on a case-by-case basis. As part of the re-enrollment process, applicants must submit a written statement explaining the changes in their circumstances that will support their successful completion of the program upon readmission.

Re-enrollment is not guaranteed and remains at the discretion of the College.

Students allowed for re-enroll within one calendar year of their withdrawal, expulsion, or failure. Students will resume their studies from the last successfully completed point in the program while maintaining their previous academic standing. Tuition will be charged at the current published rate at the time of re-enrollment, with adjustments made for any coursework previously completed.

Academic Status

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13f)

NewEra College upholds academic integrity and student conduct through clearly defined policies regarding probation, suspension, and expulsion. These policies ensure that students maintain satisfactory academic progress, adhere to behavioral standards, and fulfill their financial obligations while providing a structured approach to academic support and disciplinary actions.

Academic probation is imposed on students who fail to meet the minimum GPA requirements for one semester. During this period, students are given the opportunity to improve their academic performance and regain good standing. The probation process may involve mandatory academic advising, a reduction in course loads, or participation in counseling and workshops designed to support student success. If a student does not meet the required academic standards by the end of the probationary period, they may face suspension or dismissal from the College.

Suspension serves as a temporary removal from the College due to academic deficiencies, behavioral misconduct, or financial non-compliance. Students may be suspended if they continue to underperform academically despite prior probationary support, violate the student code of conduct through actions such as plagiarism, harassment, or cheating, or fail to meet financial obligations, resulting in a hold on their enrollment status. The length of a suspension varies depending on the severity of the issue. To be reinstated, students must complete the suspension term and demonstrate their readiness to return, such as by resolving financial obligations or obtaining faculty approval. Additionally, they must submit a reinstatement petition, including a suspension clearance form and any required reinstatement fees. If students fail to meet the reinstatement criteria, they may face permanent expulsion from the College.

Expulsion is the most severe disciplinary action and results in the permanent removal of a student from the College due to major violations or repeated offenses. Expulsion may be imposed for serious academic dishonesty, such as falsifying records or engaging in habitual cheating, as well as for severe behavioral violations, including assault, theft, or harassment. It may also result from a student's failure to comply with probation or suspension conditions. When an expulsion decision is initiated, the student receives formal notification and is granted a maximum of 30 calendar days from the date of notification to respond. If the student does not respond within this timeframe, they are officially dismissed from the College. However, students have the right to dispute an expulsion decision by following the College's established grievance policies and procedures. By enforcing these policies, NewEra College ensures a fair and structured approach to academic progress and student conduct while maintaining a high standard of integrity and excellence within the institution.

Transcripts

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13h)

Overview

NewEra College considers the academic records and other student-related information as confidential. As per the Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA), student academic records can only be released if the student personally requests a copy of it.

Coursework grades are made available on the Learning Management System (LMS) immediately upon faculty grading.

The course grading is calculated at the end of each course to determine satisfactory progress.

Official Transcript

An Official Transcript is a certified true copy of a student's permanent academic record that shows all the courses that the student has completed at NewEra College, including grades and other relevant information. An Official Transcript is validated with the Registrar's signature and the school seal.

Transcript Request

Issuance of Official Transcripts requires an official request from the student using the Transcript Request Form online through the NewEra College website to authorize the release of the transcripts. A confirmation Email will be sent to the student.

NewEra College issues one original copy of Official Transcripts to each student free of charge. Request for additional copy costs $10.00 per set.

Maintenance and Confidentiality of Student Records

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13i)

NewEra College shall ensure that the electronic records are not in a proprietary format and are easily searchable by student.

NewEra College shall maintain a complete, accurate, and permanent record for each student ever enrolled. NewEra College shall ensure that the student record includes the following:

1. An enrollment agreement
2. Copy of the entrance exam, if applicable;
3. A transcript;
4. Grades received, where applicable;
5. Student attendance information;
6. Counseling records; and
7. A record of all obligations incurred and all funds paid by or on behalf of the student to the NewEra College.

NewEra College shall maintain financial aid records for each student for the length of time required by the DE.

NewEra College shall make student records available and readily accessible for use and review by an authorized official of the NewEra College or authorized representative of the Board.

NewEra College that gives credit toward a course based on job experience, training, or life experience shall record that credit in the student's official transcript, which is part of the student record.

NewEra College shall ensure the student's official transcript shows the portion of the course for which the student is given credit based on job experience, training, or life experience.

NewEra College shall include the following information, as applicable, in the record of a student who graduates:

1. Job placement provided, and
2. Place of employment and beginning salary after graduation.

NewEra College shall ensure that records required are:

1. In electronic form, are maintained securely and protected against damage or loss from fire, water, theft, tampering, or other harm;
2. Are maintained in perpetuity or submitted to the Board under R4-39-402; and
3. Are made available and readily accessible for use and review by an authorized representative of the Board.

Attendance Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13j)

NewEra College requires students to meet an attendance requirement for each term, which is set at a minimum of 80% of the total required instructional days. Failure to meet this standard may impact a student's attendance grade.

Credit Transfer Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #13k)

Transferability of Credit to NewEra College

NewEra recognizes and values the knowledge and skills gained from your prior education, training, work, or life experiences, and may accept some prior completed coursework for transfer credit into the program. NewEra College evaluates a wide range of credits for prior learning from a state-approved, nationally accredited, regionally accredited institution, or an international equivalent, military training, and other sources. It is at the discretion of the college as to which credits it will accept and how the credits will be applied. A maximum of 75% of the program credits can be transferred to NewEra College.

A student must submit an official transcript and corresponding course description/syllabus prior to starting their program. Unofficial transcripts will not be accepted for evaluation. To receive transfer credit, students must have successfully completed courses similar in scope and content to the college's courses. Application for transfer of credit evaluation fee ($200) should be paid in advance.

Transferability of Credit Earned at NewEra College

NewEra College does not guarantee the transferability of its credits or degree to another college, university, or institution. Any decision on the comparability, appropriateness, and applicability of credits and whether they should be accepted is the decision of the receiving institution.

For this reason, you should make certain that your attendance at NewEra College will meet your educational goals. This may include contacting an institution to which you may seek to transfer after attending NewEra College to determine if your credits or degree will transfer. Students should assume that credits earned at NewEra College are not transferable to other institutions.

Grievance Policy

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #14a)

NewEra College is responsible for upholding its students' rights and ensuring that the school's non-discrimination policy is applied for students who choose to file a grievance. Grievances may be filed for reasons involving discrimination, harassment, violation of a school policy, or other concerns.

NewEra College aims to minimize all kinds of issues and address them through an established system for receiving and handling complaints. This system provides an opportunity to understand the views of students who have experienced the institution's services, allowing the college to rectify issues and improve its image when corrective actions are taken.

Students must use the following procedure to file a grievance:

1. Initial Communication:

Students should first attempt to address the issue directly with the responsible party in writing. A copy of the communication should be preserved for reference.

2. Filing a Grievance:

If the issue is not resolved satisfactorily, students may submit a Grievance Form to the Chief Academic Officer or their designee within 21 calendar days of the alleged incident. The Grievance Form can be submitted through the NewEra College website at (URL will be mentioned)

3. Review Process:

The Chief Academic Officer or their designee will appoint an Academic Review Committee to review the grievance and make a recommendation for resolution. The Chief Academic Officer or designee will issue a decision based on the committee's recommendation within 2 weeks of receiving the grievance submission.

4. Appeal:

If the student is not satisfied with the decision, they may submit a written appeal to the Chief Academic Officer or designee within 2 weeks of receiving the committee's decision. The Chief Academic Officer or designee will issue a final decision within 2 weeks of receiving the student's appeal. The appeal can be submitted through the NewEra College website at <https://neweracollege.us/complaints/appeal>

For complaints that cannot be resolved through NewEra College's grievance procedure, see the next important information.

Important- Grievance Resolution

(AZ Standards, Catalog checklist item #14b)

If the student complaint cannot be resolved after exhausting the Institution's grievance procedure, the student may file a complaint with the Arizona State Board for Private Postsecondary Education. The student must contact the State Board for further details. The State Board address is: 1740 W. Adams Street, #3008
Phoenix, AZ 85007
Phone: 602-542-5709
Website: <http://ppse.az.gov>

Harassment or Discrimination Policy

NewEra College takes allegations of harassment based on sex, race, color, religion, national origin, age, disability, or sexual orientation very seriously. The school strives to be free of all improper or unlawful harassment.

Conduct on the part of faculty, staff, or students, which violates this policy includes but is not limited to:

- Unwelcome or unwanted sexual advances or requests for sexual favors, or insinuations that a grade or other academic achievement is dependent upon the granting of sexual favors.
- Unwelcome physical contact, including patting, pinching, hugging, kissing, fondling, etc.
- Offensive conduct, verbal or written, including sexually explicit jokes, comments, innuendo, or other tasteless actions that would offend a reasonably sensitive person
- The display of sexually offensive pictures, posters, illustrations, or objects.
- Slurs, jokes, or ridicule based on race, ethnic or national origin, religion, gender, or disability.

Individuals who have questions or who experience harassment should immediately report the offense to the Chief Academic Officer or designee through the NewEra College website at <https://neweracollege.us/complaints/>

Conduct Policy

NewEra College communicates directly with students whose conduct was deemed to warrant disciplinary action. Students may respond to the allegations by following the procedures listed under the Grievance Policy.

Americans with Disabilities Act

NewEra College complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and State and local requirements regarding students with disabilities. Reasonable accommodation may be granted to qualified students under these regulations. To qualify, generally, students must demonstrate that the disability:

- Is based on documented individual needs
- Does not compromise essential requirements of a course or program.
- Does not impose unusual or unreasonable financial or administrative burdens on NewEra College.

A course or program offered at NewEra College should not be required to undergo modification to accommodate an individual with a disability.

Students are responsible for informing NewEra College of a disability and submitting required documentation prior to starting any activity at the school for which accommodation is sought. Requests for accommodation must be approved prior to registering for courses.

The following procedure must be followed by students who want to request accommodation for a disability.

1. Student submits a request online at <https://neweracollege.us/request/disability>, outlining the disability. All required supporting documentation must be provided by the student and at the student's expense.
2. The Chief Academic Officer or designee decides and advises the student, in writing, of the decision within 15 days of receipt of the request. Further information may be requested if needed.
3. The Chief Academic Officer or designee notifies the faculty member required to make an accommodation, without disclosing the medical information shared by the student.

Courses

Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics-Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Track and Requirements

Overview:

The professional track is designed for students seeking to develop the analytical and practical skills necessary for advancement in non-academic careers in government, NGOs, and business, as well as a solid understanding of the teaching and pedagogical field. It is tailored for students who do not plan on pursuing a PhD after their completion of the Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL).

Students in the professional track write a master's report (ARR) that must include the integration of theory and practice through practical research projects, enabling students to investigate practical challenges within their field of study. It promotes the synthesis of theoretical and practical knowledge through procedural research projects in the field of teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.

The professional track program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as the Action Research Report (ARR) defense. Students develop the ARR during their time in the program. The report contains a comprehensive statement of the candidate's knowledge and skills of second language teaching and learning showing the teaching method applied in the professional environment (at least 3 credit hour teaching in TAFL). The ARR is a product of the capstone project required by The Action Research and Educational Field Application course to obtain the master's degree and defended before the candidate's supervisory committee. This course is 8 credit hours. The ARR should not exceed 15 pages and reflect:

- A. Professional Environment: Describe what kind of professional setting you have in mind when articulating your teaching philosophy. What kind of teaching situation is this portfolio aimed at, for example, teaching Arabic at an American university, adult ASL in the USA, high school, AFL for special purposes (business professionals, Diplomats, Physician, journalist, ...), as an Adjunct instructor teaching Arabic in a college setting, ...etc.?
- B. Teaching Philosophy Statement: Delineate your own beliefs about teaching and learning as well as how exactly you plan to implement your beliefs in a real-world context. For each point/belief, briefly describe an example of a classroom activity you have used in the past or you intend to use in the future. Be sure to explain all important concepts and terminology and cite relevant sources along the way. Students are expected to cite at least five different references in their teaching philosophy statement.

Program Description:

Program credit hour: 30

Program Language: Arabic

In-take: Fall - Spring

Program duration: 2-3 semester

Semester duration: 15 weeks

Lectures Delivery: Online interactive lectures via Zoom, accessible through the university's LMS educational platform.

Teaching Methodology:

- Interactive Brainstorming Sessions: Foster idea generation and critical thinking.
- Cooperative Learning Activities: Promote teamwork, collaboration, and peer interaction.
- Practical Application Exercises: Present real-world examples and engage in problem-solving activities during lectures.
- Technology Integration: Utilize internet resources to enrich and enhance course content.
- Active Participation: Encourage student involvement through discussions and interactive dialogue.
- Assignments and Assessments: Assign individual and group tasks to reinforce learning objectives.
- Student Presentations: Provide opportunities for students to demonstrate their understanding through practical applications.
- Students choose either the professional or thesis track. Both tracks require 30 credit hours.
 - The M.Ed students are required to take 10 credit hours of general courses.
 - The M.Ed students are required to take 12 credit hours of specialized courses
 - Action Research and Educational Field Application course (AR-6000) is a requirement for Professional Track students' graduation, 8 credit hours course
 - The Master's professional track program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a graduation report defense.
 - A list of courses that meet the general and specialization courses required can be found in the PCS Form

Program Objective

The Master of Education (M.Ed) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) with 30 credit hours, is designed to prepare highly skilled educators with advanced pedagogical expertise, linguistic proficiency, and research competencies necessary for effective Arabic language instruction. This program integrates theoretical foundations with applied teaching methodologies, equipping graduates to excel in language education, curriculum design, and academic research.

Through a comprehensive blend of instructional design, language assessment, and technology-enhanced learning, students will develop the ability to analyze linguistic structures, implement evidence-based teaching strategies, and adapt instruction to diverse learner needs.

Over coursework and hands-on clinical practicum (3 credit hours), students will gain practical teaching experience, master evidence-based instructional strategies, and engage in professional field applications. The program culminates in an Action Research and Educational Field Application Report (ARR), where students analyze, implement, and evaluate Arabic language teaching innovations.

Program Goals

1. Develop Highly Competent Arabic Language Educators
 - Provide students with theoretical foundations and practical methodologies in second language acquisition and Arabic linguistics.
 - Enhance teaching effectiveness through evidence-based instructional strategies, assessment techniques, and classroom management skills.
2. Foster Expertise in Applied Linguistics and Language Pedagogy
 - Equip educators with curriculum development skills, proficiency-based assessment tools, and technology-enhanced language learning methods.
 - Train students in intercultural communication and linguistic diversity to address the needs of a global Arabic-learning community.

Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs)

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Apply linguistic theories and second language acquisition principles to Arabic language instruction.
2. Design and implement curricula, lesson plans, and assessments tailored to diverse learner needs.
3. Utilize technology-enhanced language learning tools to improve instructional delivery.
4. Conduct action research and data-driven analysis to refine teaching methodologies.
5. Demonstrate effective intercultural communication skills in multilingual and multicultural environments.

Career Pathways

Graduates of this program are prepared for roles such as:

- Arabic Language Educator (K-12, universities, language institutes)
- Curriculum Developer for Arabic language programs
- Instructional Designer specializing in Arabic language learning
- Language Assessment Specialist for proficiency testing organizations
- Educational Consultant in Arabic language pedagogy

*Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied
Linguistics-Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)*

Track and Requirements

Overview:

Students who wish to pursue a PhD should choose the thesis track. Students in the thesis track write Master's Portfolio (MA research paper/thesis). This Portfolio is usually a review of literature with conclusions drawn after conceptualizing an area of inquiry, planning a systematic search, and analyzing and critiquing the acquired information. This academic paper should advance research knowledge and skills in teaching Arabic as foreign language (TAFL) discipline. This paper shows the way of tying together major themes, issues, and perspectives the TAFL student has encountered and reflected upon over the research fundamentals course in the Master's program. This understanding is cast in the light of what it means to the TAFL student and for the TAFL student's intended academical context.

This portfolio follows the same format specifications of academic writing and are expected to reflect research and scholarly standards, although they may be less extensive and do not require the originality of the dissertation. The portfolio should be at least 40-50 pages. The Master's thesis track program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a graduation portfolio defense.

A. Portfolio Characteristics

- The portfolio is the final product submitted in the Fundamentals of Scientific Research course, to show the student's research output.
- The author's stance is very important; the reader needs to hear the writer's personal, professional voice.

B. Portfolio Format

- Use APA citation and formatting style throughout.
- Total size: no more than 50 pages (which includes all preliminary pages, the main 'body' of the portfolio, and the References section). Page count does not include the appendices.
- Use 12-point Times New Roman font and double-spacing
- Use 1-inch margins.

C. Portfolio Components

1. Preliminary pages
2. Introduction
3. Teaching Philosophy
4. Hands-on teaching experience
5. Main Paper
6. Statement of Future Goals and Plans
7. References
8. Appendix/Appendices

Program Objective

The Master of Arts (MA) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) with 32 credit hours, provides students with a strong foundation in linguistic theory, Arabic language structure, and second language acquisition research.

This program prepares graduates for academic, research, and policy-oriented careers by emphasizing linguistic analysis, applied research, and curriculum development in Arabic language education.

Students will engage in critical inquiry, data-driven research, and cross-linguistic comparisons, equipping them to contribute to Arabic language education through original research and scholarly discourse.

This program culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a graduation portfolio defense allowing students to conduct in-depth research on topics related to applied linguistics, Arabic language teaching methodologies, or second language acquisition.

Program Goals

1. Build Expertise in Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition

- Develop a deep understanding of linguistic theories, Arabic phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics.
- Explore the principles of second language acquisition (SLA) and their application to Arabic language instruction.

2. Strengthen Arabic Language Pedagogy and Curriculum Design

- Train students in evidence-based teaching methodologies, language assessment, and classroom strategies.
- Equip graduates with curriculum development skills, integrating technology-enhanced learning and proficiency-based language instruction.

3. Advance Research in Applied Linguistics and Language Education

- Develop critical research skills in applied linguistics, leading to original scholarly contributions in Arabic language teaching and acquisition.
- Prepare students for doctoral studies or careers in research, policy development, and higher education.

Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs)

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Analyze linguistic structures of Arabic (phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics) within applied linguistic frameworks.
2. Conduct empirical research on Arabic language acquisition and pedagogy.
3. Develop curriculum and language assessment models based on proficiency-based learning approaches.
4. Evaluate sociolinguistic and intercultural factors affecting Arabic language learning.
5. Apply critical thinking and research methodologies to advance Arabic language education policy and practice.

Career Pathways

Graduates of this program are prepared for roles such as:

- Academic Researcher in Applied Linguistics and Arabic language education
- Higher Education Instructor in Arabic language programs
- Language Policy Analyst for education ministries and institutions
- Assessment & Testing Specialist for Arabic language proficiency exams
- Doctoral Candidate in Applied Linguistics or Arabic Language Studies

Courses' Brief

Course Code : LS-6001-FL
Course title : Linguistic Skills for FL
Credit Hours : 2
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This course is designed to prepare students to become specialized educators in teaching Arabic to non-native speakers by equipping them with the theoretical knowledge and practical skills necessary for effective language instruction. The course explores foundational theories of second language acquisition and their application in the context of teaching Arabic, with a focus on global standards such as the ACTFL framework for assessing language proficiency.

The course emphasizes analyzing learner needs and designing effective instructional programs aimed at achieving specific learning outcomes. It develops students' skills in planning and organizing integrated teaching sessions that address the four language skills: listening, reading, writing, and speaking. Additionally, the course examines innovative teaching strategies and their integration into the educational process to enhance the learning experience.

Through this course, students will gain the ability to design advanced instructional programs that meet the diverse needs of learners in various contexts, while aligning with global standards and best practices in the field of Arabic language education.

Course Code : AT-6002-FL
Course title : FL Acquisition Theories
Credit Hours : 2
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

The Second Language Acquisition course in the Master of Education in Applied Linguistics – Arabic as a Foreign Language aims to provide a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second language acquisition theories and their practical applications in teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. The course explores foundational concepts in language acquisition and pragmatics, focusing on the relationship between meaning, context, and the process of learning and using a language.

The course covers advanced topics such as interlanguage pragmatics, discourse sequencing, and how conversations are shaped by participants, emphasizing the importance of pragmatics in teaching Arabic as a second language. It equips educators with the skills to integrate pragmatic principles into teaching practices and fosters awareness of the role of context and meaning in language learning.

Students will engage in practical activities and tasks reflecting real-life language use, enabling them to evaluate and design instructional materials and curricula that incorporate pragmatic teaching methods. Through research-based approaches and hands-on training, the course prepares students to develop effective strategies for teaching Arabic, ensuring a comprehensive and culturally responsive learning experience for learners from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds.

Course Code : CLD-6003-FL
Course title : Contrastive Linguistics and Difficulties in TAFL
Credit Hours : 2
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

The Contrastive Linguistics and Challenges of Teaching Arabic for Non-Native Speakers course is a fundamental component of the Master of Education in Applied Linguistics – Arabic as a Foreign Language. The course focuses on studying and analyzing the challenges faced by non-native speakers while learning Arabic, emphasizing the analysis of errors and difficulties arising from linguistic and cultural differences between Arabic and the learners' native languages.

This course explores the cognitive, linguistic, psychological, and social factors that influence the acquisition of Arabic as a second language. It also introduces the principles and methods of contrastive linguistic analysis, enabling students to identify and analyze similarities and differences between Arabic and the learners' native languages. This analysis helps in understanding the difficulties that learners may face, such as language errors influenced by the mother tongue, across phonological, morphological, grammatical, and semantic levels.

The course aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the challenges non-native speakers may encounter when learning Arabic. It also delves into the complexities and obstacles Arabic language educators face when teaching Arabic as a foreign language through the lens of second language difficulties and contrastive analysis.

Students will study cognitive, linguistic, psychological, and social factors affecting the acquisition and use of Arabic as a second or foreign language. The course will also cover the principles and methods of contrastive analysis, enabling students to identify and analyze similarities and differences between Arabic and their students' native languages to understand and address language learning difficulties effectively.

Course Code : TL-6004-FL
 Course title : Text Linguistics and FL Learning
 Credit Hours : 2
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This course examines the mechanisms that govern the structure and organization of texts, including textual cohesion (connecting sentences and paragraphs through tools such as conjunctions and reference markers). It also addresses the production and interpretation of texts, alongside analytical methods applied to both written and spoken texts. The course explores various text types (descriptive, narrative, persuasive, argumentative) and the foundational principles for their classification based on linguistic structure and functional context. The course further incorporates Conversation Analysis, where students learn to analyze the structure of conversations using modern linguistic frameworks, emphasizing the role of social and linguistic contexts in shaping dialogic interactions. Additionally, the course delves into the foundational linguistic analysis of various aspects of the Arabic language at different levels, including:

- Phonetics and Phonology: Analyzing the sound system of Arabic.
- Morphology: Examining morphological structures and their functions.
- Syntax: Understanding syntactic rules and sentence construction.
- Semantics: Studying meanings and semantic relationships.
- Stylistics: Analyzing expressive styles and language use across different contexts.

The course offers students practical exercises aimed at enhancing their abilities to analyze texts and conversations while developing their linguistic skills in reading, writing, listening, and speaking. These exercises employ concepts from textual linguistics to design effective instructional activities for teaching Arabic as a second language, ensuring the enhancement of learners' linguistic proficiency.

Course Code : TC-6005-FL
 Course title : FL Teacher Competencies
 Credit Hours : 2
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This course aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the competencies required for effective teaching of Arabic as a second language. It focuses on three main types of competencies:

1. Cognitive Competencies: These involve a deep understanding of the subject matter and the content of instruction, including analytical knowledge of the Arabic linguistic system (phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics) and cultural aspects relevant to language teaching.
2. Methodological Competencies: These emphasize teaching skills and strategies, such as lesson planning, activity design, classroom management, and interactive and creative teaching methods.
3. Classroom Interaction Competencies: These include understanding the characteristics of classroom discourse, implementing rules of interaction with learners, and creating a collaborative and engaging learning environment.

The course also addresses methods for training Arabic language teachers during in-service programs, ensuring the development of their skills, critical thinking, and professional growth. It focuses on cultural factors influencing language learning, learning strategies, and approaches to addressing various educational scenarios. The course introduces the key issues in preparing second language teachers, focusing on four fundamental aspects:

1. Linguistic Aspect: Analytical knowledge of the Arabic language system and the teacher's communicative competence in using the language.
2. Cognitive Aspect: Latest theories and concepts in linguistics related to language acquisition and the development of learners' linguistic performance.
3. Pedagogical Aspect: Bridging theory and practice in designing and delivering lessons effectively.
4. Practical Training: Integrating hands-on activities and practical applications into the curriculum to prepare students for actual teaching practice.

Through this course, students will explore modern linguistic and educational theories, understand the objectives and principles of teacher training, and analyze the teacher's role from the perspective of professional and pedagogical competencies. Students will also learn how to design effective teaching strategies, assess learners' progress, and address diverse classroom challenges.

Course Code : SLA-6006-FL
 Course title : Structures and Linguistic Analysis in TAFL
 Credit Hours : 2
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This course provides an in-depth study of the syntactic and linguistic aspects of the Arabic language, focusing on their application in teaching Arabic as a second language. It covers topics such as word boundaries, morphological construction rules, models of morphological analysis, parts of speech, sentence structure systems, and vertical and horizontal relationships and their role in linguistic organization. The course also introduces linguistics and its branches, with a special focus on applied linguistics in the context of second language instruction.

The course explores various aspects of the Arabic language, including phonological, morphological, syntactic, semantic, and stylistic features. It aims to utilize this knowledge to deepen students' understanding of linguistic components and enhance their language teaching skills. Additionally, it examines different perspectives on teaching grammar explicitly versus implicitly and highlights the psychological, pedagogical, and linguistic principles related to teaching syntactic phenomena.

Students will gain theoretical knowledge of syntactic structures based on modern linguistic schools, such as structuralism, generative grammar, and cognitive linguistics. Practical training is provided on designing linguistic exercises, activities, and assessment tools to evaluate grammar acquisition levels.

Furthermore, the course offers an advanced approach to analyzing the Arabic language using contemporary linguistic methods and frameworks. Students will be trained to analyze Arabic structures, including its morphological, phonological, and semantic systems. The course emphasizes modern linguistic analysis techniques and their integration into teaching Arabic grammar, phonology, and lexicon to non-native speakers.

Course Code : FET-6001-IT
 Course title : FL Educational Technology
 Credit Hours : 2
 Category : General

Course Description:

This course provides a comprehensive and integrated study of the fundamental concepts related to educational technology and modern tools used in teaching a second language. It begins by introducing students to the concept of educational technology, its objectives, and its significance in enhancing the educational process. The course explores the various classifications of educational technologies, including auditory, visual, audiovisual, and interactive digital tools, highlighting the features of each type and their role in facilitating second language learning. Emphasis is placed on the criteria for selecting technologies that align with the nature of the educational content, learners' proficiency levels, and desired learning outcomes. The course also addresses the major challenges and obstacles educators may encounter when integrating these technologies, such as limited resources or technical expertise, and provides effective strategies to overcome them. Additionally, students are trained to design and develop innovative educational materials using locally available resources or low-cost technologies, with practical examples of their application in second language teaching. Finally, the course examines the theoretical foundations of educational technology and its connections with other pedagogical concepts, such as interactive learning and learner-centered approaches, enhancing students' ability to bridge theory and practice while improving the quality, efficiency, and effectiveness of the educational process.

Course Code : DLP-6001-ED
 Course title : Developmental and Learning Psychology
 Credit Hours : 2
 Category : General

Course Description:

This course provides graduate students with an advanced and comprehensive understanding of human development and learning processes within educational contexts. It delves into the theories of human growth and the mechanisms of learning across various stages of life, with an emphasis on their application in teaching Arabic to speakers of other languages.

The course covers the fundamental concepts of developmental psychology, key theories such as those of Piaget and Erikson, and the characteristics and challenges of developmental stages, including adolescence. It explores principles of growth, the factors influencing developmental and learning processes, and research methodologies in developmental psychology. Additionally, students will gain insights into childhood and adolescent issues and strategies for addressing them effectively.

Course Code : CDA-6002-ED
Course title : Curriculum Design and Analysis
Credit Hours : 2
Category : General

Course Description:

This course is a key component of the graduate program in Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language. It equips students with the theoretical foundations and practical skills necessary to design and evaluate effective curricula tailored to language learners' needs. Students will learn to analyze educational needs, set objectives, develop curriculum frameworks, design instructional materials, and plan assessment strategies.

This course emphasizes understanding curriculum development models and theories, aligning curriculum with educational goals and standards, and addressing learner diversity and context. Students will explore specialized aspects of designing curricula for teaching Arabic to non-native speakers, selecting and sequencing materials, and evaluating curriculum effectiveness.

Students will study the characteristics of effective educational materials and design lesson plans and units based on both language and cultural goals. Practical exercises include developing lesson models and critically analyzing existing Arabic language teaching materials. The course also examines classroom discourse, focusing on its linguistic and non-linguistic features, communicative and educational functions, and its role in language acquisition and teaching practices.

The course covers the evolution of curriculum concepts, its components, and the foundational theories (philosophical, social, psychological, and cognitive) behind curriculum development. Students will engage with various curriculum organization models (subject-centered, learner-centered, and balanced approaches), and explore curriculum evaluation, development, enrichment, and adaptation processes.

Students will analyze existing curricula and develop their own proposals tailored to specific contexts, preparing them for professional roles in curriculum design, evaluation, and improvement in teaching Arabic as a foreign language.

Course Code : AEM-6003-ED
Course title : Assessment and Evaluation Methods in FL
Credit Hours : 2
Category : General

Course Description:

This course contributes to building students' professional competence, empowering them to deliver a distinguished and comprehensive educational and evaluative experience that meets the needs of Arabic learners from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds

This course aims to academically and professionally prepare students to evaluate and enhance Arabic language skills for learners whose first language is not Arabic. The course focuses on equipping students with the theoretical foundations and practical applications of language assessment, emphasizing the analysis of learners' educational needs and the design of effective measurement tools that meet those needs while accounting for cultural and social diversity.

The course aims to develop students' understanding of both traditional and alternative assessment methods, along with their ability to design language tests that align with the learners' levels and specific learning objectives. It emphasizes the use of diverse techniques and methodologies for assessing the four language skills: listening, reading, writing, and speaking. Additionally, the course trains students in analyzing test results, preparing comprehensive evaluation reports, and utilizing statistical methods for data analysis in educational research.

Furthermore, the course fosters a deeper understanding of cultural and social factors that influence the design and implementation of language assessments, enabling students to conduct fair and comprehensive evaluations that reflect the diverse backgrounds and needs of learners.

Course Code : ETA-6004-ED
Course title : Educational Theories and Applications
Credit Hours : 2
Category : General

Course Description:

This course aims to introduce graduate students to the major educational thought movements that have shaped educational philosophies and theories throughout history. It explores their impact on curriculum design, teaching methods, and the roles of teachers and learners. The course seeks to equip students with the analytical skills to examine educational thought within its historical, social, and cultural contexts and apply these ideas to address contemporary educational challenges.

Additionally, the course is designed to foster a deep understanding of educational thought and its practical applications, preparing students to become leaders and thinkers in the field of education. Graduates will be equipped to contribute to the advancement of education, achieve its objectives, and address future challenges with innovation and effectiveness

Course Code	: AR-6000
Course title	: Action Research and Educational Field Application
Credit Hours	: 8 Cr
Category	: Specialization - graduation requirement for M.Ed

Course Description:

This course focuses on the study and application of action research in the educational field, aiming to equip master's students with the knowledge and skills necessary to understand and utilize action research as a scientific tool for solving situational educational problems within the context of teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. The course emphasizes the concept of action research and its importance in the educational process, while training students on how to design and conduct field-based scientific research that addresses real-world educational issues.

The course includes practical sessions for preparing and implementing research projects, allowing students to work as researchers in flexible and open educational environments under the supervision of the course instructor and the research project coordinator. This course highlights the integration of theory and practice through practical research projects, enabling students to investigate practical challenges within their field of study. It promotes the synthesis of theoretical and practical knowledge through procedural research projects in the field of teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.

The Practical Research Report (ARR): This is a graduation report required to obtain the master's degree.

Practical Training & Clinical Practicum

As part of the Master of Education in Applied Linguistics – Arabic as a Foreign Language (Professional Track) program, students are required to complete a clinical practicum comprising a minimum of 3 credit hours of supervised Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) training. This practicum is an integral component of the Action Research and Educational Field Application Report (ARR).

During this structured, hands-on teaching experience, students assume the role of an Arabic language instructor for a duration equivalent to one full academic semester in an approved educational setting.

The practicum emphasizes:

- Advanced classroom management techniques
- Effective teaching strategies for non-native Arabic learners
- Curriculum development, lesson planning, and instructional material design
- Assessment and evaluation of student learning outcomes
- Integration of technology in Arabic language instruction

Requirements for Graduates to Practice

To successfully complete the program and qualify for professional practice, students must:

1. Complete the clinical practicum with satisfactory evaluations from faculty supervisors and cooperating instructors.
2. Submit an Action Research and Educational Field Application Report (ARR) demonstrating the application of research-based methodologies in TAFL instruction.
3. Meet all competency standards outlined by the program for effective foreign language teaching.

This structured training ensures graduates are well-prepared to practice as Arabic language educators in diverse educational settings, including K-12 schools, universities, and language institutes.

A clinical practicum in a Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) program is a structured, supervised teaching experience where students apply theoretical knowledge in real-world educational settings. It serves as a hands-on training component designed to prepare future educators by immersing them in actual classroom environments.

Key Elements of a Clinical Practicum in TAFL:

1. Supervised Teaching Experience
 - Students teach non-native Arabic learners under the guidance of experienced faculty or mentor teachers.
 - Supervision includes classroom observations, lesson evaluations, and feedback sessions.
2. Application of Teaching Strategies
 - Students implement pedagogical theories, classroom management skills, and curriculum design principles.
 - Lessons are structured to develop speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills in Arabic learners.
3. Integration of Research-Based Methodologies
 - Students engage in action research, applying language acquisition theories and instructional methods.
 - Emphasis is placed on using data-driven approaches to improve student learning outcomes.
4. Assessment and Evaluation
 - Students conduct formative and summative assessments to measure language proficiency.
 - They analyze student performance and adjust instructional techniques accordingly.
5. Cultural and Linguistic Immersion
 - The practicum helps students understand cross-cultural communication challenges in teaching Arabic.
 - They develop strategies to enhance student engagement and motivation.
6. Final Teaching Portfolio & Reflection
 - Students document their lesson plans, teaching reflections, and student progress as part of their professional portfolio.

- A final Practicum Report or Action Research Project is typically required for program completion.

Purpose of a Clinical Practicum in TAFL

- Provides real-world teaching experience before entering the workforce.
- Bridges the gap between theory and practice in Arabic language education.
- Ensures graduates meet professional teaching standards and are well-prepared for diverse educational settings.

Course Code : SR-6000
Course title : Fundamentals of Scientific Research
Credit Hours : 10
Category : Specialization - graduation requirement for MA

Course Description:

This course provides a comprehensive study of the principles and fundamentals of scientific research, starting with an introduction to the concept, purposes, objectives, and significance of scientific research, and progressing to an understanding of its essential characteristics and principles. The course offers a historical overview of the evolution of knowledge and the emergence of science, highlighting the concept of science, its features, and the role of scientific research in advancing human societies. The course focuses on equipping students with the skills needed to write a concise research paper of 30-40 pages, emphasizing the connection between academic theory and practical application. Key topics include formulating research problems, defining objectives and questions, and utilizing appropriate tools for data collection and analysis. This course is designed to train students in preparing practical and academic research that reflects the foundational aspects of scientific inquiry, serving as a precursor to advanced courses in research methodologies and statistical analysis, which are necessary for developing theses or dissertations. Ultimately, it aims to develop the research skills required to produce focused and well-structured academic papers.

Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics- Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Track and Requirements

Overview

The professional doctorate (EdD) is a degree designed to prepare educators in Arabic as foreign language discipline. Working professionals often choose a doctoral program to gain knowledge they can use to apply their work experience, skills, and expertise to roles of greater leadership and influence.

Complementary Research is the product for the Research Seminar course (RS-7009-FL) and Complementary Research preparation course (CR-7000), in which the candidate identifies a problem, presents their methodology, describes their project, makes observations about their findings, and presents a practical solution. Doctoral degree program coursework and Research Methods and Statistical Analysis courses prepare candidates as they learn about research methods, planning and designing research, statistics and presenting findings. The doctoral study's components are designed to demonstrate competence in research and research design, subject matter expertise, and command of critical thinking and academic writing. The Complementary Research preparation in doctoral study involves:

- Creating a proposal that describes a problem the candidate wants to solve; the purpose of the study; and the research questions, methodology, and design.
- Presenting an oral defense of the research proposal to the doctoral committee (a presentation followed by a question-and-answer session).
- Collecting data and writing the findings.
- Use APA citation and formatting style throughout.
- Use 12-point Times New Roman font and double-spacing
- Use 1-inch margins.
- Presenting a final oral defense of the research findings to the doctoral committee.

Program Description

Program credit hour: 60

Program Language: Arabic

In-take: Fall - Spring

Program duration: 4 -10 semester

Semester duration: 15 weeks

Lectures Delivery: Online interactive lectures via Zoom, accessible through the university's LMS educational platform.

Teaching Methodology:

- Interactive Brainstorming Sessions: Foster idea generation and critical thinking.
- Cooperative Learning Activities: Promote teamwork, collaboration, and peer interaction.

- Practical Application Exercises: Present real-world examples and engage in problem-solving activities during lectures.
- Technology Integration: Utilize internet resources to enrich and enhance course content.
- Active Participation: Encourage student involvement through discussions and interactive dialogue.
- Assignments and Assessments: Assign individual and group tasks to reinforce learning objectives.
- Student Presentations: Provide opportunities for students to demonstrate their understanding through practical applications.
- Students choose either the professional or Dissertation track. Both tracks require 60 credit hours.
 - All EdD students are required to take 6 credit hours of general courses.
 - All EdD students are required to take 24 credit hours of specialized courses.
 - All EdD students are required to take 9 credit hours of research seminar course (RS-7009-FL).
 - Complementary Research course (CR-7000) is a requirement for Professional Track students' graduation, 13 credit hours course
 - For professional (EdD) track, Project Portfolio is a product for independent studies course (IS-7000) with 8 credit hours.
 - The Doctorate program for the professional (EdD) track culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a complementary research defense.
 - A list of courses that meet the general and specialization courses required can be found in the PCS Form

Program Objective

The Doctor of Education (Ed.D) in Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) is a professional doctorate designed to prepare educators, curriculum designers, and academic leaders with advanced expertise in Arabic language instruction, educational research, and policy development. This program is tailored for working professionals seeking to apply their experience and skills to leadership roles that influence Arabic language education at institutional, national, and global levels.

This 60-credit-hour EdD program is designed to bridge the gap between applied research and real-world educational challenges, enabling graduates to lead, innovate, and transform Arabic language education on a global scale.

The program integrates advanced pedagogy, applied linguistics, language acquisition theories, and instructional leadership with practical, research-based problem-solving. Through rigorous coursework in research methods, statistical analysis, and educational policy, candidates develop the ability to design, conduct, and evaluate applied research that enhances Arabic language education methodologies, curriculum development, and teacher training programs.

The culminating research project (Complementary Research) requires candidates to identify a practical issue in Arabic language education and develop a research-based solution, and defend their findings in written and oral formats. The program concludes with written and oral exams, as well as a complementary research defense, demonstrating each candidate's mastery of the field.

Program Goals

1. Develop Transformational Leaders in Arabic Language Education

- Prepare professionals for leadership roles in educational institutions, curriculum development, and language policy formulation.
- Foster critical thinking, decision-making, and strategic planning in Arabic language education.

2. Advance Research and Evidence-Based Instructional Practices

- Equip candidates with advanced research skills, enabling them to contribute data-driven insights and innovations in Arabic language learning.
- Train candidates to design, implement, and assess educational programs using qualitative and quantitative research methods.

3. Enhance Applied Linguistics Expertise and Instructional Strategies

- Develop subject matter expertise in Arabic linguistics, second language acquisition, and proficiency-based teaching models.
- Promote effective integration of technology, assessment models, and curriculum frameworks in Arabic language instruction.

4. Strengthen Scholarly Writing and Research Dissemination

- Guide candidates in producing publishable research that contributes to scholarly discourse and practical applications in Arabic language education.
- Prepare educators to present research findings at conferences, academic journals, and professional development seminars.

Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs)

Graduates of the Edd in Applied Linguistics – TAFL will be able to:

1. Conduct advanced educational research using qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-method approaches.
2. Critically analyze and evaluate language acquisition theories and their implications for Arabic language education.
3. Design, implement, and assess Arabic language curricula based on linguistic, cognitive, and sociocultural principles.
4. Apply leadership and policy development skills to influence Arabic language education at institutional, national, and global levels.
5. Use data-driven decision-making and research methods to enhance instructional practices and learning outcomes.
6. Integrate educational technologies and innovative methodologies into Arabic language teaching and teacher training.
7. Present and defend research findings through scholarly writing, oral presentations, and policy recommendations.

Career Pathways

Graduates of this program are prepared for leadership and research-intensive roles in Arabic language education, including:

- University Researcher – Leading Arabic language education programs and publishing research in applied linguistics, overseeing language education departments and curriculum development.
- Curriculum and Assessment Director – Designing Arabic language curricula and assessment tools for schools and language institutions.
- Educational Consultant – Advising government agencies, NGOs, and private institutions on Arabic language education policies.
- Language Policy Specialist – Shaping national and international language education policies and proficiency standards.
 - Instructional Design Expert – Developing technology-enhanced Arabic language learning programs.

Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics-Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL)

Track and Requirements

Overview

The Ph.D is an academic degree focused on original research, data analysis, and the evaluation of theory. The result of that research is a dissertation. People who earn a Ph.D often pursue careers in research, academia, and leadership.

The dissertation is the product of the Research Seminar course (RS-7009-FL) and Dissertation preparation course (DN-7000). The dissertation should address a gap in literature and add new knowledge to a field of teaching Arabic as foreign language through original research. A dissertation reflects a Ph.D candidate's interests and can have a significant impact in the community or profession. The dissertation preparation in Ph.D program consists of:

- Drafting a dissertation prospectus that outlines research questions and a data collection plan.
- Completing a research dissertation proposal and presenting an oral defense of it to the doctoral committee.
- Completing a research dissertation that identifies a research problem; provides a literature review; defines research methods; reveals findings; and ends with a summary, conclusions, and implications.
- Use APA citation and formatting style throughout.
- Use 12-point Times New Roman font and double-spacing
- Use 1-inch margins.
- Presenting a final oral defense of the research dissertation to the doctoral committee.

 - For Dissertation (PhD) track, 2 papers publication is a product for independent studies course (IS-7000) with 8 credit hours.
 - The Doctorate program for the Dissertation (Ph.D) track culminates in written and oral exams, as well as a dissertation defense.
 - A list of courses that meet the general and specialization courses required can be found in the PCS Form

Program Objective

The Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in Education - Applied Linguistics - Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) is an advanced academic program designed for scholars who seek to push the boundaries of knowledge in Arabic language education, conduct transformative research, and influence educational policies worldwide to prepare scholars, researchers, and educators for leadership in Arabic language education, applied linguistics, and second language acquisition research.

This program emphasizes theoretical analysis, original research, and data-driven inquiry, equipping candidates with the expertise to contribute new knowledge to the field of Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL).

The 62-credit-hour program integrates linguistic theory, language acquisition models, educational policy, and advanced research methodologies, culminating in a dissertation that addresses a critical gap in the field. Through rigorous coursework, research seminars, and statistical analysis training, candidates will develop the ability to conduct independent scholarly, high-impact research that shapes the future of Arabic language education showing the student critical and analytical academic input in the dissertation.

The program concludes with written and oral comprehensive exams, followed by a dissertation defense, demonstrating each candidate's ability to generate original research and contribute to the global body of knowledge in applied linguistics and Arabic language education.

Program Goals

This program equips graduates with the skills necessary to lead, innovate, and drive meaningful advancements in the teaching and learning of Arabic as a foreign language achieving the following goals:

1. Advance Original Research in Applied Linguistics and TAFL

- Prepare scholars to conduct groundbreaking research that expands theoretical and practical knowledge in Arabic language education.
- Guide candidates in producing methodologically sound, data-driven research that addresses critical gaps in the field.

2. Strengthen Expertise in Language Acquisition and Pedagogical Theory

- Develop a deep understanding of linguistic structures, cognitive language processing, and proficiency-based Arabic language instruction.
- Analyze and critique existing language acquisition models and their implications for Arabic language teaching.

3. Equip Scholars for Leadership in Academia and Policy Development

- Train candidates for faculty and research positions in universities, think tanks, and language institutes.
- Develop policy analysis and curriculum evaluation skills to influence Arabic language education at institutional and governmental levels.

4. Enhance Research Methodologies and Scholarly Contributions

- Provide rigorous training in qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-method research approaches.
- Support candidates in publishing peer-reviewed research, presenting at international conferences, and contributing to academic discourse in applied linguistics.

Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs)

Graduates of the Ph.D in Education – Applied Linguistics (TAFL) will be able to:

1. Follow the scientific research methodology and use the statistical analysis basis to analyze and build the dissertation structure.
2. Conduct independent, original scholarly high-impact research, that contributes new knowledge to the field of Arabic language education and applied linguistics.
3. Analyze and critique linguistic theories related to second language acquisition and pedagogy.
4. Develop and evaluate language teaching methodologies based on research-driven best practices.
5. Apply advanced statistical and research methods to investigate issues in TAFL and second language learning.
6. Contribute to academic and policy discussions on Arabic language education through scholarly publications and conference presentations.
7. Lead curriculum development and program evaluation initiatives in Arabic language education institutions.
8. Defend original research findings through a dissertation and oral defense that addresses an existing gap in the literature.

Career Pathways

Graduates of this program are prepared for high-level academic, research, and leadership roles, including:

- University Professor or Researcher – Teaching and conducting research in applied linguistics and Arabic language education.
- Linguistic Research Scientist – Investigating language acquisition, sociolinguistics, and pedagogical innovations.
- Director of Language Programs – Leading curriculum development and language proficiency programs at universities and institutes.
- Education Policy Analyst – Advising governmental and international organizations on Arabic language education policies.
- Academic Journal Editor or Reviewer – Contributing to scholarly publications and peer-reviewed journals in linguistics and education.
- Doctoral Supervisor or Advisor – Mentoring future researchers and Ph.D candidates in applied linguistics.

Courses' Brief

Course Code : RF-7001-FL
course title : Reference Frameworks in TAFL
Credit Hours : 3
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course provides an advanced study of the linguistic and pedagogical frameworks used in teaching Arabic as a second language, offering a deep understanding of the reference frameworks and linguistic structures that form the foundation of Arabic language education. The course focuses on analyzing Arabic linguistic structures in comparison to foreign languages, alongside an exploration of the diverse frameworks that contribute to teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. It addresses concepts from applied linguistics and linguistic theories that support second language learning and acquisition, while linking these frameworks to effective educational practices.

The course emphasizes the study of internationally recognized linguistic frameworks, such as the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) guidelines, the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR), and standards used in teaching other languages, such as Chinese language teaching standards, among others. The course aims to equip students with the knowledge and skills needed to critically analyze these frameworks and adapt them to meet the needs of teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.

Through a comparative approach, students evaluate how these frameworks define levels of linguistic proficiency, structure learning objectives, and guide curriculum design and assessment. The course also focuses on the practical applications of these frameworks by connecting them to teaching strategies that enhance learners' acquisition of essential language skills (listening, speaking, reading, and writing) and linguistic elements (grammar, morphology, and vocabulary).

Course Code : PS-7002-FL
Course title : Psycholinguistics
Credit Hours : 3
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course explores the field of psycholinguistics, examining the cognitive and psychological processes underlying language acquisition, comprehension, production, and usage. Specifically designed for the domain of teaching Arabic as a foreign language, the course focuses on how to apply theories and research in psycholinguistics to develop effective educational practices and enhance language skill development in learners. The course covers the psychological, linguistic, and educational foundations of the communicative approach in language teaching, addressing its distinctive features compared to previous approaches and its view on the relationship between structure and function in language use.

The course also presents second language teaching methodologies and procedures, with a special focus on task-based and project-based teaching/learning approaches, including the design, implementation, and assessment of educational tasks.

Key topics include the representation of linguistic structures in the mind, the relationship between language and thought, first and second language acquisition processes, bilingualism, language transfer (the influence of the first language on the second), and the roles of memory, attention, and perception in language learning. The course also covers the neurobiological foundations of language processing, with an emphasis on the brain areas involved in learning and using the Arabic language, as well as common language processing disorders and their impact on the teaching process.

Students will engage in critical analysis of contemporary research in psycholinguistics, evaluating its relevance to Arabic language teaching, and developing strategies to address the challenges faced by Arabic as a foreign language learner. The course places special emphasis on designing evidence-based teaching methods and psycholinguistic principles to enhance learner proficiency, improve language retention rates, and achieve communicative competence.

Course Code : LC-7003-FL
 Course title : Lexicography and Corpora
 Credit Hours : 3
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course explores the study of lexicography and linguistic corpora within the context of teaching foreign languages, with an emphasis on the critical role of dictionaries in second language teaching and learning. The course aims to examine various types of dictionaries, ranging from general and specialized dictionaries to dialectal, digital, and modern cognitive dictionaries. It also addresses the concept of linguistic corpora and their application in analyzing language and extracting rules and vocabulary that facilitate foreign language acquisition.

The course includes an overview of the latest advancements in the development of electronic dictionaries and their impact on foreign language teaching. It also delves into tools and techniques for analyzing linguistic corpora and their use in academic research and the creation of effective instructional strategies. Students will learn how to compile linguistic dictionaries based on extensive language corpora and how to classify vocabulary using modern techniques for organizing linguistic information.

The course also covers the theoretical and practical foundations underpinning the construction of dictionaries and examines the interplay between lexicon, grammar, morphology, and semantics in second language acquisition. Students are expected to analyze and evaluate dictionaries and linguistic corpora while developing their skills in leveraging these tools to enhance second language teaching and learning effectively.

Course Code : MT-7004-FL
 Course title : Modern Theories and Practices of Applied
 Linguistics
 Credit Hours : 3
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course provides an in-depth exploration of the core concepts, fields, and methodologies in applied linguistics, with a particular focus on modern theories and their practical applications. The course examines the nature, scope, and branches of applied linguistics, especially in the context of second language acquisition and teaching. Special emphasis is placed on addressing issues related to teaching Arabic as a second or foreign language. The course equips students with the skills to conduct applied linguistic research, focusing on language teaching and dissemination. Students will critically analyze and evaluate existing studies and experiences in teaching Arabic within the Arab world and globally. Through hands-on projects, participants will undertake practical research tasks, including preparing concise research papers, articles, and reports on selected topics related to teaching Arabic as a second language.

As part of the course, students will be guided in applying proper scientific research methodologies to their chosen topics, bridging theoretical knowledge with practical applications in the field of applied linguistics. This approach aims to prepare students for scholarly contributions that advance the understanding and practice of language teaching and learning in diverse linguistic and cultural contexts.

Course Code : DY-7005-FL
 Course title : Dialectology
 Credit Hours : 3
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course provides an in-depth examination of dialectology, the study of linguistic variation across stylistic, regional, and social dimensions. The course investigates how language evolves and varies due to external influences such as migration patterns, geographic distribution, and social factors including socioeconomic status, gender, age, and ethnicity. Students will explore the linguistic outcomes of these influences, focusing on both synchronic and diachronic perspectives. A significant portion of the course is dedicated to equipping students with methodological tools and research techniques for studying language variation. This includes data collection, analysis of linguistic features, and interpretation of results within a sociolinguistic framework. The course also addresses theoretical and practical challenges associated with dialectal research in English and other languages, emphasizing its interdisciplinary connections to linguistic theory, historical linguistics, and language education.

Through case studies and comparative analyses, students will examine specific dialects and varieties, gaining a deeper understanding of their phonological, morphological, syntactic, and semantic characteristics. Additionally, the course will highlight the pedagogical implications of dialectology, particularly in fostering inclusivity and linguistic awareness in language education.

Course Code : SO-7006-FL
Course title : Sociolinguistics
Credit Hours : 3
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This course explores the fundamental sociolinguistic issues related to the Arabic language in the context of teaching and learning it as a second language. It covers topics such as diglossia, linguistic levels, and their relationship to social linguistic situations and different communication contexts. The course also addresses the trends in the development of Arabic in the modern era, bilingualism, and the relationship between Arabic and competing languages in its domain.

The course includes the design and application of cultural and social teaching materials for teaching Arabic as a second language. It also incorporates practical exercises and activities related to the cultural, social, and civilizational aspects of second language learning.

Additionally, the course focuses on the foundations of sociolinguistics, its methodologies, and its areas related to second language teaching, particularly those concerning linguistic varieties, language stratification, the use of language in managing classroom interactions, and the relationship between structure and function, meaning and language, and age. The course also examines the social and cultural context of second language learning and how to employ these concepts in teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.

The primary goal of this course is to train students in how to collect and analyze sociolinguistic data, considering the linguistic variation across different communication contexts.

The course provides an overview of the emergence and development of sociolinguistics. It offers explanations of the variables that cause language differences used for communication, such as gender, age, race, and social class. It also addresses the role of these variables in shaping linguistic expression and structure. The course delves into factors influencing language choice in multilingual communities, language planning, language sustainability, language varieties, communication media, and the role of language in the media. Furthermore, this course trains students in the collection and analysis of sociolinguistic data.

Course Code : LT-7007-FL
Course title : Literature in FL
Teaching
Credit Hours : 3
Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course explores the integration of literature into second language acquisition, focusing on the effective use of literary texts in their natural context. The course emphasizes the importance of literature in enhancing expressive skills among advanced-level students, with a particular focus on teaching Arabic as a foreign language. It provides an in-depth examination of how literary works, ranging from classical to contemporary, can be utilized in second language teaching to promote linguistic proficiency, cultural understanding, and the development of critical thinking and literary analysis. The course discusses key theories, methodologies, and strategies for incorporating literature into language classrooms. It also explores the inherent educational qualities found within literary texts, which can be leveraged in their literary and cultural context. A key focus is understanding what literature can offer second language learners and how literary texts contribute to enriching their cognitive development, particularly in terms of linguistic and non-linguistic knowledge.

Through analysis of the pedagogical value of various literary genres—such as poetry, prose, drama, and short stories—the course examines their role in fostering language competence. Additionally, it explores the relationship between literature and language acquisition, addressing how literary texts can enhance the four language skills: speaking, listening, reading, and writing. The course also covers the challenges and opportunities associated with using literature in second language teaching, including addressing linguistic and cultural complexities present in literary texts.

Furthermore, the course investigates the role of literature in developing students' cultural competence and understanding the subtleties of the Arabic language, thus contributing to a deeper appreciation of both the language and the cultural contexts in which it exists. educational data. Finally, students will be able to present and discuss contemporary trends in educational research methodologies.

Course Code : FL-7008-FL
 course title : Foreign Languages
 Teaching Methods
 Credit Hours : 3
 Category : Specialization

Course Description:

This graduate-level course aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the theoretical and practical foundations for teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. It focuses on effective teaching strategies that address the needs of learners from diverse cultural and linguistic backgrounds. The course covers modern methodologies in second-language instruction, including teaching the four essential language skills (listening, speaking, reading, and writing), as well as linguistic components such as grammar, morphology, and vocabulary. It also emphasizes the use of modern technologies and innovative teaching tools. The course includes the study of psychological and linguistic theories that underpin second-language acquisition, with a critical analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of various language teaching approaches. Additionally, it focuses on curriculum design, lesson planning, and the development of educational activities tailored to learners of different proficiency levels. A practical component is integrated into the course, where students observe and analyze live lessons and prepare descriptive and evaluative reports on the teaching methods and tools used. Students are also required to design and deliver micro-teaching lessons, allowing them to apply theoretical knowledge in real-world educational settings. Ultimately, the course aims to prepare highly skilled educators equipped with advanced teaching competencies. Graduates of this course will be capable of designing and implementing effective and innovative educational programs that meet the needs of diverse learners, enhancing their ability to acquire Arabic efficiently and effectively. Special attention is given to developing professional competencies in handling challenges in various educational contexts. The course promotes the use of innovative teaching strategies and modern assessment techniques to support the learning process. By the end of the course, students will be proficient in employing effective and creative teaching methods for Arabic instruction, enabling learners to achieve linguistic proficiency and enhancing the overall effectiveness of their educational experience in advanced and diverse learning environments.

Course Code : RS-7009-FL
 Course title : Research Seminar
 Credit Hours : 9
 Category : Specialization -
 Graduation requirements

Course Description:

The "Research Seminar" course is a core component of graduate programs, designed to equip students with essential academic and research skills necessary for designing and conducting high-quality scholarly research. The course provides an interactive forum for students to present, discuss, and critique ideas on various academic topics within the fields of theoretical and applied linguistics, fostering critical thinking and scholarly exchange. This course emphasizes a comprehensive understanding of the research process and its significance in addressing academic issues. It covers key stages of research development, including identifying research problems, reviewing existing literature, selecting appropriate methodologies, and designing research tools. Students will also explore techniques for data collection and analysis while adhering to standards of academic integrity and research ethics. In addition to methodological rigor, the course focuses on refining students' academic writing skills. Participants will learn how to compose research papers, properly cite sources using different documentation styles (e.g., APA, MLA, Chicago), classify and organize research information effectively, and develop a well-structured thesis supported by robust evidence.

Course Code : EL-7001-ED
 course title : Educational Learning
 Environment
 Credit Hours : 3
 Category : General

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course offers an in-depth exploration of the educational learning environment, focusing on its critical role in shaping effective learning experiences. The course examines both physical and virtual spaces in educational contexts, considering how they influence the cognitive, emotional, and social dimensions of learning. Students will investigate theoretical frameworks and research methodologies for understanding the dynamics of educational environments, as well as the interplay between learners, instructors, and the broader institutional setting. The course will cover a range of topics including classroom design, organizational culture, technological integration, and inclusive practices that promote diverse learning needs. Emphasis will be placed on creating environments that foster engagement, collaboration, and critical thinking.

Moreover, students will explore the impact of environmental factors on motivation, behavior, and student outcomes, drawing on contemporary studies and practical case analyses.

Additionally, the course will examine how policies, curriculum design, and teaching strategies can shape and be shaped by the learning environment. It will explore the concept of the learning ecosystem, which includes not only the physical classroom but also the social, cultural, and technological contexts within which learning occurs. Through this course, students will engage in critical reflection on how to design and improve educational environments to support diverse learners, with a focus on innovative and sustainable practices. They will also gain practical insights into evaluating and optimizing existing learning environments to enhance educational effectiveness.

Course Code : CR-7000
course title : Complementary research
Credit Hours : 13
Category : Specialization for EdD

Course Description:

This doctoral-level course provides a comprehensive exploration of scientific research methods in the field of education, with a focus on statistical and ethnographic analysis. The course aims to equip students with the knowledge and skills required to understand and apply various research methodologies, including quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods, and to select the appropriate methodology based on the nature of the research problem. Additionally, the course offers in-depth knowledge of statistical tools and their application in educational research, enabling students to analyze data in a systematic and rigorous manner.

The course covers the general foundations of scientific research, including the steps of the scientific method, methods of knowledge acquisition, fields of research, and research problems. It also addresses research design, hypothesis formulation, and research tools. Statistical concepts such as types and functions of statistics, measurement levels, variables, statistical significance, measures of central tendency and dispersion, data normality tests, t-tests, Chi-square tests, one-way ANOVA, correlation coefficients, and principles of linear regression are also explored.

This course helps students develop their skills in choosing appropriate statistical methods, constructing research instruments, and effectively analyzing and interpreting research data using tools like SPSS. It emphasizes the importance of research design, hypothesis testing, and data analysis in the educational research process, providing students with the necessary knowledge and practical experience to conduct advanced research. Upon completing the course, students are expected to be able to compare quantitative and qualitative research in the context of curriculum and teaching methods, explain data collection and analysis techniques in qualitative research, and apply qualitative research methodologies in experimental studies. Additionally, students will be capable of selecting appropriate experimental designs for educational research, interpreting research findings, and using the relevant statistical tools to analyze educational data. Finally, students will be able to present and discuss contemporary trends in educational research methodologies.

Course Code : RM-7002-ED
course title : Research Methods and Statistical Analysis
Credit Hours : 3
Category : General

Course Description:

This course provides an in-depth exploration of the concept of the capstone research project, its objectives, fields, and standards, as well as its distinctive characteristics compared to other types of research. The course examines the methodologies, stages, and techniques involved in action research, offering practical applications and training exercises to equip students with the necessary skills to employ action research methods effectively.

As part of the course requirements, students are expected to develop and present a research project addressing a significant issue related to second language education. The project must adhere to the principles of action research, including defining the research problem, formulating research questions and hypotheses, collecting and analyzing data, and presenting findings and practical applications.

The course emphasizes rigorous application of research standards and criteria, aiming to bridge the gap between theory and practice. Students will also gain experience in presenting and defending their research before an academic committee, following the established protocols for professional doctorate research.

Through this process, the course fosters critical thinking, research competency, and the ability to apply research outcomes to real-world educational contexts, thereby preparing students to contribute meaningfully to the field of second language teaching.

Course Code : DN-7000
course title : Dissertation
Credit Hours : 15
Category : Specialization
Graduation requirement
for Ph.D

Course Description:

The researcher produces a high-quality academic dissertation in the field of applied linguistics for teaching Arabic to non-native speakers by applying sound methodological principles in the design and implementation of scientific research. This includes crafting a comprehensive introduction that outlines the research problem, objectives, and significance, as well as defining the terminology and scope of the study. The process focuses on developing a robust theoretical framework, employing appropriate research methodologies, conducting precise statistical data analysis, and interpreting results to achieve a meaningful scientific contribution in the field of applied linguistics.

The dissertation emphasizes originality and innovation while adhering to global academic standards in research writing and documentation. Special attention is given to linguistic precision and clarity of expression, as well as strict adherence to the ethical principles of scientific research.

The student is expected to produce a dissertation that provides a significant and credible contribution to the field of applied linguistics, supporting the advancement of educational practices in teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.
